

Kelley Franco Throop

Kelley Franco Throop has been a practicing litigation attorney since 1995, primarily in the areas of probate, insurance defense and coverage, and products liability. She has successfully tried jury and bench trials to conclusion in state and probate courts, and she has successfully argued before the Connecticut Appellate Court. Kelley has had her own boutique law firm in New Canaan, Connecticut since 2006.

Prior to starting her own practice, Kelley worked at firms in Paris, New York and Connecticut.

Kelley did her undergraduate studies at Georgetown University, where she majored in Government and minored in French. She studied in Paris at the prestigious Institut d'Etudes Politiques during her junior year, earning a Certificate of Political Study; all of her classes were in French. She received her law degree from the University of Connecticut.

In her spare time, when she is not doing all things baseball-related, Kelley likes to exercise. She is a past marathoner and triathlete and doesn't talk to people before her morning workout.
